

Henry Lamprecht – Managing Director

Overall strategic leadership on all projects
London Region lead

Henry Lamprecht graduated in law and specialised in Land law, Contract law and Trusts and Equities. It was during this time that he developed an interest in all aspects of planning.

He served on a London Borough Council and worked as an election Campaign Manager for one of the major political parties for many years running numerous successful election campaigns on national, regional and local levels.

He served for many years on a very busy Planning Committee and also on the Licensing Committee and in this time gained valuable first-hand experience of the inner workings of the political side of planning and the interaction between planning officers and the planning committee and the interaction between the public and the members of the planning committee.

He also served in a senior role at the Council in the Regeneration Department and worked on a number of very large regeneration projects including four complete estate renewals and a major GLA housing zone.

This extensive first-hand experience has equipped him to help clients achieve their goals while ensuring the residents take ownership of the regeneration proposals and help shape them as stipulated by the Localism Act.

He has worked in the Public Relations world for 17 years now and is very enthusiastic about the possibilities new technology provides to improve the quality of consultation with the public
